

For Empire Air Scheme

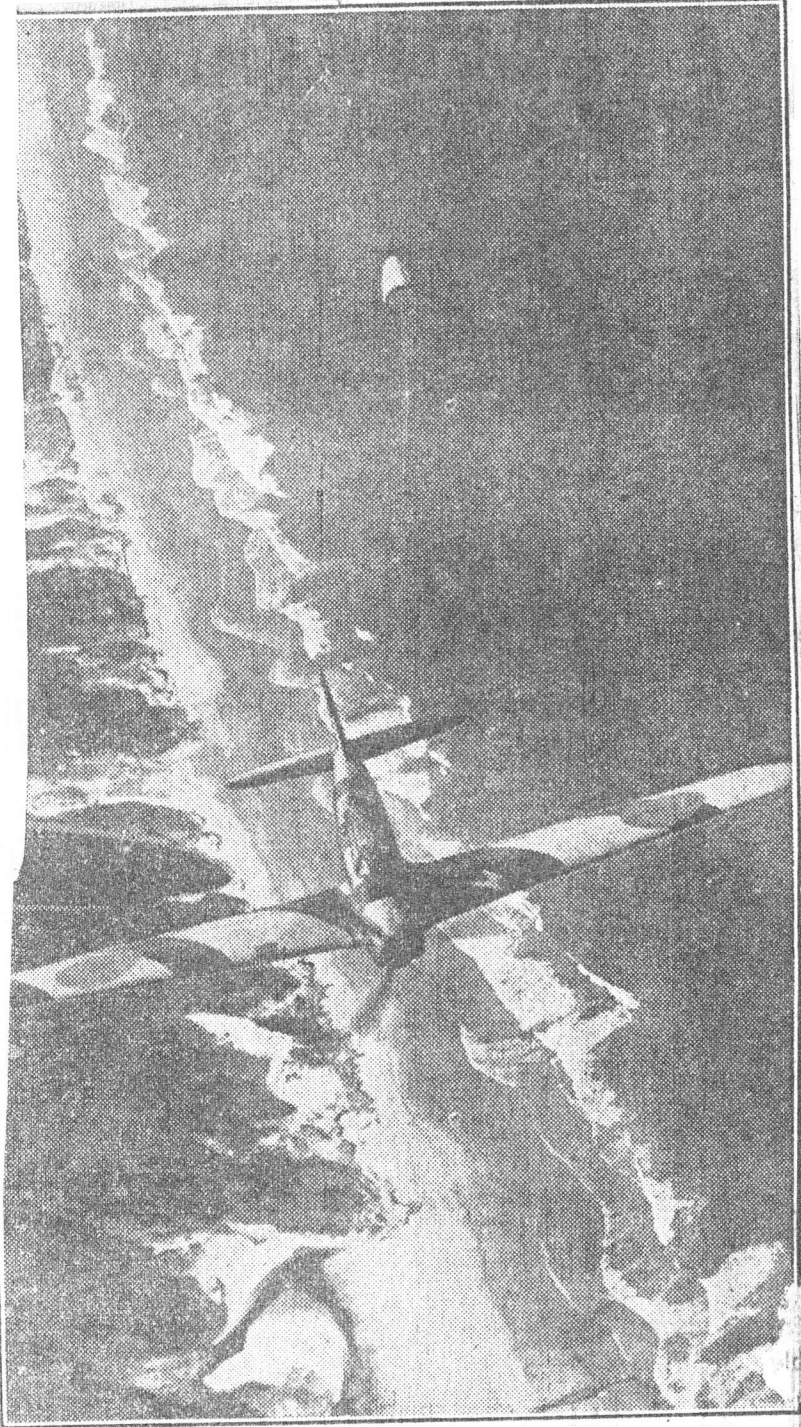

FAIREY BATTLE AIRCRAFT, a type new to Australia, are being assembled at an aircraft park in Victoria for training Empire Air Scheme recruits. Above: A view of the sleek tail of the training plane. Left: Fitters installing an engine. Below: A general view of the assembly line.

SUN 7.1 TAVES 9.5.40

OCTOBER 1, 1941 Registered at the transmission by

AIR TARGET
FOR GUNNERS

FAIREY BATTLE monoplane of an R.A.A.F. bombing and gunnery school towing a target for gunnery practice. The trailing fabric target is the same size as the vulnerable section of an enemy bomber.

R.A.A.F. TRAINEES AT EVANS HEAD SCHOOL

Above: The gunner of a Fairey Battle training aircraft prepares to fire on the target during battle practice at the Evans Head bombing and gunnery school. Below: Trainees in flying kit receive last-minute instructions before taking off.

SYDNEY MORNING HERALD 8.12.41